

Violence and Criminal Justice: What Needs Fixing?

How the courts, detention, prison, and probation systems impact individuals and communities snared by violence.

Who should come: Journalists and journalism students, who want to dig deeper into the issue of violence in Chicago.

Why: After a brief panel discussion, with legal, mental health and prison experts, you will get “speed-dating” interview time to report stories.

When: 10 to noon
Thursday, April 17

Where: Columbia College Chicago
1104 S. Wabash Ave., 8th Floor

Who: This a joint effort of the Community Media Workshop and Strengthening Chicago’s Youth, an effort of Lurie Children’s Hospital.

Speakers include:

- Elizabeth Clarke, Juvenile Justice Initiative
- Julie Biehl, Children and Family Justice Center, Northwestern Law School
- Elena Quintana, Adler School of Professional Psychology
- Charles Perry, Westside Health Authority
- Tony Lowery, Safer Foundation
- Father David Kelly, Precious Blood Ministry of Reconciliation

For more information: Steve Franklin, Community Media Workshop, steve@chicagoistheworld.org, o) 312.369.6400